Little House on the Creek

SAN FRANCISCO, CA — Sep 20, 2008

September 2008 - MKThink's Kayak House, a central element of the new Mission Creek Sports Park, was unveiled September 20th at a Grand Opening Celebration. This dynamic structure was an exciting backdrop for the main stage where guest speakers, including Mayor Gavin Newsom, addressed the crowd. While the dramatically arched frame alludes to the early ship hulls that traversed the historic Bay and Mission Creek, its translucent blue skin creates a fresh sense of modernity. Located next to the kayak launch, it enables the public to safely store kayaks and other small boats.

Under construction in the park is another MKThink structure designed in tandem with the Kayak House and featuring the same energetic quality of form. Stylishly housing restrooms and maintenance equipment, it is to open in 2009.

The sports park, featuring volleyball, basketball, and tennis courts, a dog-run, and verdant landscaping, was a novel project for the company. MKThink is looking forward to venturing further into this kind of al fresco arena.
